

Project: Prestbury Mews - Cheltenham

Weber are designer

High performance monocouche render has been specified by Cotswold Homes for an exclusive new-build development of modern, designer homes in Cheltenham. Consisting of 11 contemporary-style three and four bedroom homes designed to provide maximum space and natural light. These modern, energy efficient two and three storey properties are finished externally with weber.pral M monocouche render in Chalk and which blends perfectly with the local streetscene in this popular area.

weber.pral M is BBA approved and offers the multiple benefits of pump application and through-colour One Coat Technology which are recognised for their contribution to minimising programme works. By reducing the drying time by as much as 50%, when compared with a traditional two-coat system, on-site labour is dramatically reduced contributing to project efficiencies and faster completion.

Mark Pickthall, M P Plastering, specified the use of weber.pral M for Cotswold Homes. "We have successfully used Weber renders for many years. They are user-friendly, totally reliable and, above all, convenient. The location proved to be a challenge in a restricted residential area, so speed was of prime importance. weber.pral M is quick and easy to apply and spray application ensured we kept ahead of programme targets over a tight build schedule." A traditional ashlar detail has been added providing an attractive decorative finish. Facades rendered with weber.pral M can provide the designer with a blank canvas onto which period architecture or modern geometric design can be introduced without the need for expensive special stonework.

Weber is the first manufacturer of monocouche renders to be awarded an A+ rating as defined in the BRE Global 2008 Green Guide to Specification. This audited material helps specifiers to make selections that will collectively reduce the environmental impact of their buildings while achieving a high number of BREEAM material specification credits.
